Thank you for all of the tissue boxes. With the recent colds and the wave of Spring allergies, we have been averaging two boxes of tissue a day!! We are thankful for all that you are able to send in.

Here is your curriculum update:

Reading: This week, I started reading our character Studies book The Trumpet of the Swan aloud. We will notice how characters act and talk, and notice patterns. This week, we will grow bigger theories and make predictions based on our theories of the main character.

Writing: In Writing, we will continue to look at bold opinions and make opinions based on character traits. We look at evidence from what we learned from the story to better strengthen our claim.

Math: We have finished our Fraction unit and are finishing up some fraction activities. We have moved into our next chapter on Time, Length, Liquid Volume, and Mass.

Science: We have moved into our next Science unit: Life Cycles. In this unit, we will be comparing and contrasting the life cycle of plants and animals.
